Weekly Best Bets

Thursday
7 p.m. on CBS
Big Brother 7: All-Stars: The competition may be more intense in this seventh season of the reality series, as all the housemates have been there and done that. Twenty alumni from past seasons will learn tonight which 12 — some of them selected by viewer voting — will be housemates in this "All-Star" edition. They know the drill, as do you: Cameras are on them 24/7, and each week, one person is voted out, with $500,000 going to the last one standing. Julie Chen hosts.

8:30 p.m. on NBC
The Office: Series star Steve Carell, who plays clueless manager Michael, wrote this excellent episode, proving that he's not clueless; he only plays it on TV. The Dunder Mifflin staff turns the warehouse into a casino for a charity fundraising event, and more is gambled than money and chips. Yes, Jim (John Krasinski) finally puts his feelings for Pam (Jenna Fischer) on the table. That sound you hear is thousands of fans swooning.

Friday
8 p.m. on NBC
Las Vegas: Charity can only go so far. Danny (Josh Duhamel) learns the identity of the woman he's seen in pictures with his father and offers to pay her medical bills — against the advice of Mike and Mary (James Lesure, Nikki Cox). Speaking of mysterious women, Danny becomes suspicious of Penny (Rachel Leigh Cook) when he drops by to see her and finds a plane ticket. Sam (Vanessa Marcil) isn't happy to discover why her brother is still in town.

8 p.m. on USA
Monk: Our favorite obsessive-compulsive detective is back for what promises to be a fun-filled fifth season — well, for us, anyway. Monk (Tony Shalhoub) will have to deal with blindness, a temporary gig as a basketball coach, the threatened loss of his psychiatrist, and the presence of an annoying actor tailing him to research a role. You want guest stars? How about Peter Weller, Sharon Lawrence, Steven Weber and Alice Cooper, for starters?

Saturday
5 p.m. on A&E
Teen Wilderness Camps: Therapy or Punishment?: This special examines one of the fastest-growing areas of the psychological biz: camps for out-of-control kids that promise to turn them around by forcing them to take responsibility. You'll visit one such camp and hear from parents who say the experience delivered as promised. But before you rush out to sign up your bratty Becky or defiant David, watch the whole hour.

9 p.m. on MAX
Wedding Crashers: Nobody likes these type of guys in reality, but apparently, movie versions are great. Last year's top comedy "sleeper," this bawdy tale casts Vince Vaughn and Owen Wilson as lawyers who attend weddings to which they haven't been invited — to meet women. The rules change when Wilson's character finds love with the daughter (Rachel McAdams) of a politician (Christopher Walken).

Sunday
7 p.m. on ABCFAM
Best Man, Worst Friend: Stuart Townsend stars in this 2005 romantic comedy as a novelist who's fallen out of favor with the publishing industry. He's shaken out of his despondency by an encounter with an attractive stranger ... who turns out to be engaged to a friend of his. He knows her fiance isn't the right guy for her ... but guess who is. Now all he has to do is convince her of that. Amy Smart and Seth Green also star.

Monday
7 p.m. on CBS
The King of Queens: We'll forgive Kirstie Alley for beating her "Fat Actress" shtick into the ground — playing herself, she's a client of Carrie's (Leah Remini) with a weird request related to her weight-loss plan — because the A plot is kind of cute. Doug (Kevin James) and the guys rent an apartment over their favorite restaurant as a big boys clubhouse, but soon everyone but Doug gets bored, and he takes a busboy job to hang on to the place. Boys will be boys.

Tuesday
8 p.m. on A&E
Dog the Bounty Hunter: We're betting you didn't have a bounty hunter speak at career day when you were in elementary school. But since there's big money in catching fugitives, especially if you do it with a TV crew in tow, more moms might see it as an acceptable career path for their little ones. Speaking of moms, when Dog is done with the career-day kids, he and Beth persuade a woman with drug connections to cooperate with the feds and start a new life for her family. Sweet.

Wednesday
7 p.m. on FOX
Bones: The crime of the week, a woman's murder and her child's abduction, is compelling — topical, even. But watch it for the subplot, which has Bones (Emily Deschanel) and her colleagues getting security reviews. Angela (Michaela Conlin) has some odd skeletons, but Hodgins (T.J. Thyne) is miffed that the agent doesn't think he's worth interviewing when, as he puts it, he can tell her things that would curdle her blood — including a formula for curdling blood.
