Willis' final run is explosive

CRITIC'S CORNER
By DNA Smith
"Live Free or Die Hard"
Running time: 130 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

It's safe to say that this is the last time Bruce Willis will be playing Detective John McClane, and you can tell that Willis wanted his iconic character to go out with a bang. And another bang. And ...

That's what makes "Live Free or Die Hard" the best action movie of the year. It is wall-to-wall stunts, gunfights and Stuff Blowin' Up Real Good.

And the icing on the cake is that you can tell Willis is having the time of his life and not just phoning it in for a huge payday. Bruce's enthusiasm for the character is infectious. And for all the online bluster about how a PG-13 rating was going to spoil the film, I can tell you honestly that it doesn't. "Live Free or Die Hard" is a solid action movie -- and yes, McClane DOES deliver his signature "Yippy Kai Yay" line. The plot -- as if it matters -- surrounds an attack on the nation's computer infrastructure, from power grids to national security systems, financial institutions, even traffic lights.

A really evil guy who is too pretty to be a nerd (Timothy Olyphant) is wreaking havoc on the country.

Det. John McClane has, in tow, a young hacker (Justin Long) who inadvertently helped develop part of the insidious code.

As the country crumbles down around them, McClane and the hacker have to try to stay one step ahead of the bad guys who can track them and then send helicopters, fighter jets and other nasty stuff their way.

One of the highlights of the film is a cameo by filmmaker Kevin Smith, who plays an uberhacker with the handle, "Warlock." It was great to see Smith in the role, but it also made it glaringly obvious how weak Justin Long's characterization was. It would've been better to have Silent Bob himself hang with McClane and whomp some cyber-terrorist booty. Yippy-Kai-Yay, indeed.

Live Free or Die Hard starring Bruce Willis as Detective John McClane is a solid action movie.

ABC Burn Notice: Someone is after Michael (Jeffrey Donovan) — in a big way. An assassin is trying to take him out, which makes his current project — trying to save a friend's daughter from the clutches of a prostitution ring — a bit difficult, to say the least. But he's the hero of this show, so we expect he'll make it out of this new episode alive. Gabrielle Anwar and Sharon Gless also star in "Old Friends."		Medium: What does a kid trapped in a well have to do with a dead congressman? That's not a riddle; that's the situation Allison (Patricia Arquette) finds herself dealing with in "The Whole Truth." She's working with Devalos (Miguel Sandoval) on solving the mystery surrounding the politician's death, but she keeps having these visions of a little boy in a well. Are they connected? And if so, how?
Friday 9 p.m. on CBS		Monday 7 p.m. on ESPN
NUMB3RS: He coulda been a contender! A mixed-martial-arts fighter is fatally poisoned while training for a big match, and suspicion falls on his sparring partner, Ben Ellis (Grenge Akinngebe), who happens to be a friend of David's (Alimi Ballard). David leads the effort to clear his buddy, but it doesn't look good when the FBI learns that another man he fought with also died. Charlie (David Krumholtz) enters a poker tournament to defend Larry's (Bruce McGill) title.		ESPN Ultimate NASCAR: Leading up to the return of Nextel Cup racing to ESPN on Saturday, a five-night NASCAR documentary run begins with "The Explosion," a look at the sport's boom, notably in the last 10 years. On Tuesday, "The Dirt" delves into stock car racing's dirt track days; Wednesday's "The Cars" spotlights the evolution of the stock car; the sport's risks are noted in "Speed and Danger" on Thursday; and Friday's "The Families" chronicles racing's royalty.
