'Resident Evil' series may continue

Critic's Corner
By DNA Smith
"Resident Evil: Extinction"
Running Time: 95 minutes
MPAA rating: R

First, let's get this out of the way for the "R.E." fans out there: "Extinction" isn't as good as the original, but it's a ton better than "Apocalypse." Also: Return of the Zombie Dogs! (Yesss!) Definitely check it out.

OK, now that that's over with, let's get down to the review for those of you unfamiliar with the movie or video-game series.

"Extinction" is the third and supposedly final installment in the series (but the ending does leave open the possibility of a fourth flick). The T-virus, which turns all living things into flesh-eating zombies, has spread globally, with a few tiny pockets of uninfected humanity living a post-apocalyptic "Road Warrior" kind of existence. And, for some reason, all the survivors are excruciatingly beautiful, pouty supermodel-types who have a hard time finding gasoline, but have no trouble stocking up on hair gel.

The T-virus is the brainchild of The Umbrella Corporation, which has a few underground research labs around the world. They are feverishly trying to save humanity by trying to create "domesticated" zombies and synthesizing a vaccine from the blood of Alice (Milla Jovovich), who escaped the evil corporation and for years has been battling the zombies single-handedly using her super zombie-fu fighting powers and pouty gaze.

Ali Larter (who single-handedly made her story arc in the TV show "Heroes" the most boring moments in television) plays "Claire," the leader of the uber-hair-gelled Road Warrior Survivors. Thankfully her

Milla Jovovich stars as Alice and battles flesh eating zombies created by an evil corporation in "Resident Evil: Extinction."

Black Hole of Talent doesn't suck all the excitement out of the film, because there is simply too much awesome zombie-fu going on for her to get enough screen time to weigh the picture down.

And speaking of zombie-fu, there are some awesome scenes featuring the return of the Zombie Dogs from the first film and an enormous swarm of zombieified crows. If you're a fan of the films, video games (especially RE-4, which rocks!) or zombie flicks in general, you need to check out "Extinction." It's definitely worth the price of admission.

Thursday	9 p.m. on CBS
Viva Laughlin: A musical murder mystery. This could either be a surprise hit or a colossal train wreck. You decide. Lloyd Owen stars in this Americanization of the British miniseries "Viva Blackpool" as a businessman in Laughlin, Nev., trying to open a casino. What he didn't gamble on was his former business partner turning up dead. Madchen Amick also stars, with executive producer Hugh Jackman in a recurring role.

Friday	8 p.m. on ABC
Women's Murder Club: It's not "Murder on the Orient Express"; it's a lot grislier. Lindsay (Angie Harmon) tries to solve a triple murder on a subway train, and Cindy (Aubrey Dollar) tries to uncover some evidence on her own. The women's personal lives get interesting, as Lindsay runs into her ex's fiancée, Jill (Laura Harris) gets ready to move in with her guy, and Claire (Paula Newsome) helps her husband with his recovery in the new episode "Train in Vain."

Saturday	7 p.m. on HBO
Happy Feet: Also known as the movie that beat James Bond ("Casino Royale," specifically) at the American box office, this joyous animated treat from director George Miller ("Mad Max") follows the odyssey of a penguin (voice of Elijah Wood) who can't carry a tune like so many of his peers — but he sure can dance, thanks to the computer-applied moves of Savion Glover. The all-star voice cast also includes Robin Williams and Nicole Kidman.

Sunday	8 p.m. on ABC
Desperate Housewives: The mother of all mothers-in-law is back in the new episode "If There's Anything I Can't Stand." Shirley Knight reprises the role of Phyllis, mother of Bree's (Marcia Cross) late husband, Rex. She pays an unexpected visit to Chez Hodge and quickly unmasks Bree's secret. Elsewhere on Wisteria Lane, a couple of new neighbors move in, and Edie (Nicollette Sheridan) gets a surprise at the doctor's office. Felicity Huffman also stars.
